Credit recovery vs. Credit for learning

While the underlying intention of credit recovery and credit for learning differ from one another, there are overlapping strategies between the two credit earning opportunities.

- Intended for students who are falling behind academically or at-risk of not graduating on time.
- Students can redo coursework in a class they have failed or retake the class in an alternative manner, such as in summer school, during afterschool or weekend classes, or online.

- Provides opportunities to earn credits outside of the school day that count toward graduation requirements.
- Can take place in afterschool and summer programs.

- Intended for students interested in earning additional credits toward graduation, or students looking to further personalize their education or pursue an interest.
- Students can earn credits for various activities and experiences outside of the classroom, such as community service projects, internships or apprenticeships, independent studies, and student-led projects.

Evidence from Issuer: [\[Download\]](#)

Comments/Evidence of Learning from Issuer:

1. Kevin demonstrates a high level of communication by understanding the multiple perspectives of his teammates and ensuring everyone is on the same page before each play is run. For example, during training camp, Kevin conferenced with players from different positions to ensure they understood where their role would fit into the play prior to practice.
2. Kevin has demonstrated the ability to empower his teammates for effective communication with each other. Kevin has prepared his teammates to ask questions of one another rather than relying primarily on him to translate directions from coaches and the quarterback. An example of this ability happens on a weekly basis where players now go directly to one another and coaches without having to wait for Kevin to make time and check-in with them in the locker room.
